Chandler, Ariz., Jan. 15.—Most of the managers of the larger mines of Arizona are present guests of the Hotel San Marcos, here to participate in a very important meeting of the Arizona chapter of the American Mining Congress. It is expected that at this meeting there will be determined upon a uniform plan for the operation of the big Arizona mines during the present period of slack demand and low prices for copper, as well as upon a course of action concerning employment. Already a large number of men have had to be laid off in the mines. Among the attendees is J. F. Caldwell, of Washington, secretary of the American Mining Congress. L. D. Ricketts, the well known mining engineer, is here for the winter, with Mrs. Ricketts.

50 Ton Plant Being Built By El Pasoan

Treating Plant Is Being Built by W. A. Doyle Near Tucson, Arizona.

W. A. Doyle, formerly of El Paso, is reported putting up a 50-ton furnace and plant of the Dawson system, as called from its inventor, Dr. O. R. Dawson, chemist and metallurgist, also of the same place, in the Rosemont district, near Tucson, Ariz. The material for the plant is on the ground and it is expected that the furnace will be blown in in about two months. The process is said to be a treating of low grade carbonate and oxide copper and other ores so as to convert the mineral into concentrated. Much is claimed for the process.

Big Bullard Mine Is Taken On Lease By Prominent Operators

The Bullard copper-gold mine in the Wickenburg district, in western Arizona, owned by J. B. Bullard, has been taken over on long and lease by Ben C. Wilson, of Casa Grande, Ariz.; Wilson Douglas, of Hollywood, Cal.; and R. B. Henderson, all well known mining men. It is a big property and it is claimed that it has 300,000 tons of ore in place. It is said that the ore runs four percent copper and 15 gold per ton. It is reported that Mr. Wilson and associates are considering building a large treating plant at Aguila, the nearest point on the Parker cutoff, and building eight miles of standard gauge railroad, to connect the mine with the main line of railroad.

Revival Of Activity Is Reported In The Charleston District

The present high price of silver is the cause of activity in the old Charleston district near Bullhead, Ariz., according to Tucson reports. Prospecting and small operations for several months have been finding much encouragement and a good many men have been investigating the district. Some good showings have been reported and shipments have been made. This is an old district which has been worked by men of limited means and in a more or less desultory way heretofore.

M., recently shipped from their Jim Crow mine in that district seven cars of ore which brought the $200,000 and over. The ore of this property is strictly silver-gold. They plan opening this mine extensively at no distant date.

SHATTUCK ARIZONA MILL CLOSING; MINERS LAID OFF

Bisbee, Ariz., Jan. 15.—The flotation mill of the Shattuck Arizona Copper company, in which lead ores were concentrated, was closed yesterday afternoon while miners engaged in getting out lead ore were laid off, as men being affected. The company announced that this was done because of the low price of lead and the impossibility of marketing the output at present. No reductions are expected to be made in the copper mining division, it was said.

IMPORT RESTRICTIONS AFFECTING ORES LIFTED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—The copper export association, of New York, organized by large producers, has filed with the Federal Trade Commission articles of incorporation and obtained permission to enter export trade as a unit under the Webb law. The American Smelting and Refining company, the United Metals Selling company, the Phelps-Dodge corporation, of New York, and the California and Hecla company, of Boston, are the incorporators.

DENY CANADA COMPANY WILL CEASE OPERATIONS

Bisbee, Ariz., Jan. 15.—Canadians Consented to Copper Company, Inc., announced that the company will cease operations today. Only curtailment of forces is in prospect at present. BUILDS $800,000 MILL

A. Kraft, manager of the copper property belonging to himself and the estate of the late John R. Patterson, located on the Mexican side near Rio Grande from Port Harcourt, Texas, states that while he has been delayed in the extreme western part of the 100-ton concentrating plant, he now expects to have it completed about February 15.

Upper Valley To Get Irrigation Law With Teeth

Present New Mexico Measure Does Not Permit Tax Levy For Work.

That the "teeth were pulled" from the irrigation district law of New Mexico when passed by the last legislature, is the assertion of George Clark, one of the prominent farmers of the upper valley, and he says the land owners of the valley "are going to have them put in if we have to hire a Pullman car and go to Santa Fe and stay there until the legislature aids us."

"We got through a law allowing us to form an irrigation district," he said, "but when it was enacted it did not bestow upon the district the right to levy a tax for improvements, so we can only collect from those who are willing to pay and that does not include, of course, the owners of the large tracts that are not being farmed, but which are being held for speculative purposes, to be sold at a high figure when the man actively engaged in farming succeed in building up the community. We are going to Santa Fe and get this law amended, then we can make the owner of big tracts of land help us to pay the cost of improvements. That will increase the price of his holdings."

To Clear Up The Law

"Because of this, the most important piece of legislation affecting the interests of the Rio Grande project in Dona Ana county to come before the next legislature will be the irrigation district amendment."

Very few farmers realize the grave importance of standard gauge railroad, to connect the mine with the main line of railroad.

Where The Trouble Came

The election was finally adjourned and a decree issued stating that the proceedings were all valid and according to law. At the time of the irrigation district campaign, it was asserted that, like all other state irrigation districts, the power to levy a minimum charge, or a portion of the cost of operation and maintenance, was given to the irrigation district directors. Upon recent investigation, however, it has been found that this provision has been left out of our state law. The right to tax land within an irrigation district and portion of the costs of the operation and maintenance, or at least a minimum charge, per year is recognized as a fundamental principle in all irrigated sections, private, bonded or in cooperation with the United States.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLE FOR 16 YEARS, AND COUGHED CONSTANTLY

Then Mrs. Crawshaw stopped her cough so quickly it alarmed her.

"I had suffered with lung trouble, bronchial trouble and asthma for 16 years. In January, 1904, I had an unusually severe cold, resulting in pneumonia and was confined to my bed for several weeks. I had no money, but my cough never left me."

"The following October, I tried Mike Emulsion. After taking it a few days, the coughing went away, and ceased entirely after taking another bottle—so sudden, in fact, that I believed I had cured myself. Over 9 months previous I had coughed night and day, but my cough ceased entirely. For 16 years I have had the best medical assistance and used all kinds of medicine until I became skeptical. But the result from Mike Emulsion was nothing short of marvelous."—Mrs. J. B. Crawshaw, 1423 Grand Ave., Des Moines, Iowa.

J. Landrum Graham To Tell of It At "Y" Conference Here.

J. Landrum Graham, field secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who speaks at the Y. M. C. A. convention in the afternoon session Friday on the work of the Red Triangle League, will introduce plans for the post war work of the Red Triangle in the communities that do not have the organized associations with building and equipment.

Mr. Graham came to El Paso from the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. several years ago as membership and promotion secretary of the local association and after a couple of years of successful work he was called to the National War Work council to assist in financial campaigns in the middle west and also as one of the army work secretaries at the School of Fire, Fort Sill, Okla.

At the meeting of the Interstate Commerce Commission in El Paso, W. H. Day, the executive secretary, was instructed to call Mr. Graham to take up the special work of the Red Triangle League, which organization was introduced to serve as the connecting link between the home and the men in the front line.

League Has Big Roll

The Red Triangle League has organized chapters in 25 or more of the larger communities in the Southwest with a total membership of nearly 10,000. The services rendered by the league have been extremely valuable in the conduct of the war work. They have assisted in the evacuation of the boys leaving for camps, providing introduction cards to the camps, and in the writing of the boys at the front, sending music and phonograph records and numerous other services that were greatly appreciated.

In speaking of the post war work of the Red Triangle League, Mr. Graham said it was his opinion the league had come to its greatest opportunity as the 25,000 or more men returned to the Southwest from serving the colors and that it could render a very valuable service in providing home coming employment and other features in behalf of the returning men. It also is a means of introducing the association community work to a large number of towns that will probably not be able to support a building work.

The troop train service conducted by the Interstate Commerce Commission was handled largely by Mr. Graham. In the past year over 4000 men on troop trains have been served by the Red Triangle League.

COMMISSION LOST WHEN BALLOTS WENT UNSIGNED

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 15.—Helen Moore, the judge called to replace the judge Morris Oppenheim from the bench and a one-armed daretel stated Monday that the commission to replace him had been lost.

Policeman William Kruger briefly told the court that he had arrested Moore for begging.

"Guilty," said Judge Oppenheim, "and the sentence will be—"

But the judge did not finish. Up to the bench rushed a well dressed man with an air of prosperity. "Just a word, please, Your Honor," he said politely.

"I speak for this poor suffering young man. I knew him when he was a fine, upright chap. He slipped for the wayward. I want to help him. The new year dawns with hope for all. May I take this poor fellow into my home?"

Touched by the plea the judge took up his pen and started to write "dismissed" opposite the beggar's name on the calendar. Again he was interrupted. This time it was Policeman Kruger speaking.

"These men are partners. Your Honor," he said. "Moore does the begging and this man who has just spoken, enjoys himself on the alms of his partner."

"Very well," said Judge Oppenheim, addressing the two. "I'll do something for you both. I can't let you go to my own home, but Tom Finn still has a few places at his table at the county jail. You may both spend 30 days with him."

CAR COMPANY COMPROMISES

Immediately following filing of the 24th district court of suit for $1500 damages, a compromise agreement on the part of the Electric Railway company to pay $1500 to Carl V. Leib and his parents was entered Thursday morning. Plaintiffs alleged that on July 6 last a live wire was on the company's tracks at Westminster and Jefferson streets and Carl, not knowing there was danger, played with the wire and was severely shocked.
